Poly2path [Updated]

Convert SVG Polygon string to SVG Path string. The tool uses a simple macro to change SVG polygon string to SVG path string. The tool uses a set of predefined pattern(SVG path string) to replace specified symbols in a given string. This functionality is very useful if you have an SVG image with many symbols that you want to change. After running the application, the new pattern is saved as an SVG image. You can change the polygon pattern as you like. I think you can use the program. But I don't use the program. I use the 'Inkscape' and I think you can also use this program. If you need more information, please let me know. We are studying the inhibitory influences of neurotransmitters and ions on intrinsic (GK) and electrically-induced (Ito) membrane currents in smooth muscle cells of the guinea-pig vas deferens. The approach is to first describe the in vitro pharmacology of the membrane currents in dispersed smooth muscle cells, then to examine the effects of these agents on smooth muscle contractile activity, and finally to identify and characterize the membrane currents on intact cells using electrophysiological recording techniques. In the past year we have focused on the inhibitory actions of norepinephrine (NE) on both GK and Ito currents and on the actions of alpha-adrenergic agonists on the latter current. One major aim of this project is to determine the mechanisms and characteristics of the alpha-adrenergic inhibition of Ito. In order to determine if the alpha-adrenergic inhibition is mediated via alpha-2-receptors on the membrane, we have employed a novel norepinephrine antagonist, RX 77368. This compound is a new alpha-2-adrenergic antagonist with a high affinity for alpha-2-receptors and no measurable affinity for alpha-1-receptors. RX 77368 has no alpha-1- or beta-adrenergic agonist activity. Thus, we can examine the actions of this antagonist on GK and Ito without the effects of alpha-1- or beta-adrenergic stimulation. Our results indicate that RX 77368 has no effect on GK or Ito when added to the bath or when preincubated with the cells. This suggests that, at least in the dispersed cell preparation, the alpha-adrenergic inhibition of Ito does not occur via alpha-1 receptors.
